Del Rio High school principal dies suddenly

BY BRIAN ARGABRIGHT

The 830 Times

The community is in mourning as the news of the passing of Del Rio High School Principal Dr. Jose F. Perez continues to filter through town.

Perez, who had served as the principal of the school since 2016, died suddenly Saturday. Details regarding Perez's death have not yet been publicly released, and administrators at the San Felipe Del Rio CISD said the district would issue a statement regarding his passing, including his career with the district, in the days to come.

"It was because of him I continued my education," Jose Piña posted on an announcement of Perez's passing on Facebook.

"He really helped my son a lot. If it wasn't for him my son wouldn't be where he is now," Celeste Rodriguez wrote on the same announcement.

Perez was a career educator within the San Felipe CISD. According to his LinkedIn page, Perez was a teacher at San Felipe Middle School from July 1993 to June 2002 before he was assigned to Del Rio High School as an assistant principal.

He served as an assistant principal at the school until June 2008 when he was assigned his first principal position. For eight years, from July 2008 to June 2016, he served as principal at Dr. Fermin Calderon Elementary and Ruben Chavira Elementary schools.

In July 2016 he was named as principal at Del Rio High School following the passing of Briana Muraire, who had only been principal for about a month before her death.

Aside from his tenure as an

Solo plane crash claims life of Laughlin AFB instructor pilot

FROM STAFF REPORTS

The 830 Times

A Laughlin Air Force Base instructor pilot died from injuries suffered in a private aircraft accident 27 miles northwest of Del Rio.

The crash occurred the week-end of July 17-18.

The pilot, United States Air Force Major Ryan Mudry, was flying his aircraft alone.

The cause of the crash is under investigation by the National Transportation Safety Board, which has been scouring the site for several days, analyzing the Luscombe 8F's wreckage.

The plane, built in 1949, has a cruising speed of 128 miles per hour.

The 47th Flying Training Wing shared the following statement July 21.

"Ryan was an outstanding officer, instructor pilot, and a combat experienced leader who always stepped up when called ... the Wing and our Air Force will miss him greatly," said Col Craig Prather, 47th Flying Training Wing commander "Our thoughts and prayers are with his family and friends as they cope with this painful loss."

Mudry was named the 47th Flying Training Wing's Field Grade Officer of the Year months earlier, was the 47th Operations Support Squadron Director of Operations, a T-38 Instructor Pilot and a graduate of the Air Force Academy.

The ranch owner found the plane's wreckage July 18 and called the Val Verde County Sheriff's Office, which dispatched deputies and a Justice of the Peace.

Later, the Val Verde County Fire Department was called to the scene to help with recovery efforts.

State Rep. Morales explains reasons for staying behind while fellow Dems fled

BY JOEL LANGTON

The 830 Times

When nearly 60 Texas Democrats fled Texas to block Republicans from passing what they thought was a strongly partisan voting bill, State Representative Eddie Morales, representing Del Rio's District 74, was one of a hand full of Democrats who stayed behind.

"I believe staying to both debate and articulate my reasons for opposing the bill is the best way for me to represent my district,"

State Rep.
Eddie Morales

Morales said July 17 from Eagle Pass. He planned to return to Austin before July 19. "I support the decisions of my colleagues who choose to fight this bill differently, using parliamentary procedures."

Morales said he and his fellow Democrats saw that they were going to "get a bill rammed down their throats" that they'd have little say in.

However, going to Washington D.C. on a chartered plane wasn't the best lane for Morales. "For me, leaving the state just didn't work," he said.

Since staying along with a handful of other Democrats, he's been thrust into the role of mediating and defending his fellow Democrats.

"There was talk of changing the locks on the doors of Democrat offices, taking their parking spaces, stripping them of committee assignments, but we talked to the leadership and that's gone away for now," Morales said.

Although he stayed behind, it wasn't because he supported the Republican bills.

Some of the proposals in the bills, according to the Austin Statesman are:

— Ban drive-thru voting or casting a ballot from inside a vehicle unless participating in curbside voting due to a disability.

— Ban overnight voting by requiring polls to be open a minimum of nine hours from between 6 a.m. and 9 p.m.

— Require election officials to install a video surveillance system that records vote-counting activities, with a livestream made available to the public in counties with 100,000 residents or more.

"Texas is already dead last in voter access before this bill," he said. "Now, we want to make it even more difficult for people to be able to vote."

He said there isn't a large track record of illegal voting and thinks there are plenty of laws in place to ensure there are not any waves of illegal votes being cast.

"Since 2005, there have been 140 convictions for voter fraud in the State of Texas," he said. "The Texas Attorney General has a $2 million dollar budget for voter fraud. That is wasteful spending."

However, Val Verde County Republican party chairman Frank Lopez said Morales' efforts just aren't enough.

"He needs to go on the record demanding that his fellow Democrats do what they were elected to do," he said.

Jury seated for murder trial of Kelvin James Brown

BY KAREN GLEASON

The 830 Times

A six-man, six-woman jury was seated July 19 to hear the murder case against Kelvin James Brown.

Brown was indicted in July 2019 for the March 2019 murder of Manuel Sanchez Jr., charging Brown with “committing an act clearly dangerous to human life, to wit: hitting and kicking (Sanchez) in the face and body with his hands and feet, and by placing the body in the back of a car in such manner that caused the death of (Sanchez).”

Brown was also charged in the same indictment with two counts of tampering with evidence for “intentionally and knowingly concealing the victim’s car in a hidden location with the body of the victim in the floor of the rear seat area, with intent to impair its availability as evidence in the investigation” and for “destroying the chip from the victim’s cell phone and disposing of the phone itself.”

Testimony in the trial began July 21, then would continue on Monday, 83rd Judicial District Judge Robert E. Cadena told prospective jurors during the selection process.

Jury selection began in the historic Paul Poag Theater for the Performing Arts.

The 117 prospective jurors who answered their summonses sat in the area of the theater where the audience would normally sit.

Cadena and his court reporter and members of the district clerk’s staff were seated at tables on the stage.

Cadena thanked those who showed up for jury selection, calling jury service “one of the pillars of our democracy.”

The judge also spoke about the requirements to serve on a jury and noted there were a number of reasons citizens could be exempted from serving, and once he asked those present if they wished to claim one of the exemptions, about 30 were excused.

West then began the voir dire process, which Cadena explained was an Old French term that translates as “true say,” and which means “to speak the truth.”

The purpose of voir dire, the judge said, was to find jurors who could be fair and impartial.

West went over several legal concepts with the remaining pool of prospective jurors, including the law of parties and reasonable doubt.

If chosen for the jury, could they, she asked, find someone guilty of murder, even if that person did not directly cause an individual’s death, but where they believed the law of parties applied?

'Field of Our Dreams' donors thanked in ceremony

BY KAREN GLEASON

The 830 Times

Community donors whose vision and financial contributions helped make possible the city's Field of Our Dreams sports park were thanked publicly during a donor appreciation event at the facility July 21.

Work toward construction of the Field of Our Dreams complex, located at 105 Vista Park off Kings Way on the city's north side, began about a decade ago, master of ceremonies Peter Ojeda said as he welcomed the guests of honor and other attendees.

Major donors and community supporters gathered at the Del Rio Field of Our Dreams community sports park July 21 to honor those who have contributed to the park's completion.

Ojeda introduced the speakers, beginning with Del Rio Mayor Pro-Tem Alfredo

"Fred" Carranza Jr. "One of the reasons we serve on the city council is for moments like this. This has been a lot of hard work, and it wouldn't have happened without all of you," Carranza said, singling City Manager Matt Wojnowski and City Planner Janice Pokrant out for special thanks.

Carranza also emphasized the major donors to the facility represented local businesses investing in the city's quality of life.

Ojeda read the list of community partners and major donors, who contributed some of the land and made major financial donations toward the construction of the facility, including Bill Nixon of Buena Vista Development Co., the Del Rio Chamber of Commerce and its economic development committee, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, Nick Khoury and The Khoury Group, the Rotary Club of Del Rio, Texas Community Bank, Val Verde Regional Medical Center, Amistad Bank, Border Federal Credit Union, Little Acres Nursery, Plaza Del Sol Mall, Gerald Prather, the Del Rio Hispanic Chamber of Commerce, Ramada Inn of Del Rio, Cripple Creek restaurant, Studio 6, Buffalo Wings and Rings restaurant and the Val

Senior passes now on sale

BY BRIAN
ARGABRIGHT

The 830 Times

A favorite item of Del Rio's older sports fans returns this week.

The San Felipe Del Rio CISD is once again selling its senior passes for fans aged 55 years or older. Sales were set to begin Monday, July 26 at 9 a.m. at the district's athletic office inside the Carl P. Guys Memorial Gymnasium at Del Rio High School.

Sales will continue daily until Aug. 6. The athletic office will be open from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and noon to 3 p.m. each day.

Passes will be $3 for one year and $5 for two years.

Seats available through the senior passes will be general admission only. They do not cover reserved seating.

"It's like it's always been," athletic director Frenchey McCrea Jr. said. "While all are ticket sales are being done online, people that want to purchase senior passes have to come into the office and pay for those."

The senior passes had been a traditional item for Del Rio sports fans until last year when the sales were halted due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Verde Community Foundation.

Val Verde County Judge Lewis G. Owens Jr. reminded those present that the work toward the creation of the sports park began as a grassroots community event, with local contractors and lumber yards donating supplies and work to create a series of tiny houses that were raffled off to raise funds for the park.

"It was a hometown, group effort," Owens said.

Owens said work begin done by the county at the county fairgrounds, the Alcoa Fields off Frontera

Lane and the large county property near Laughlin Air Force Base will tie in to the sports park by further enhancing the local quality of life and facilities for youth sports.

Sylvia Owens of Texas Community Bank spoke on behalf of the Del Rio Chamber of Commerce's economic development committee.

She said the project was conceived when many different community members, elected officials and businesspeople came together to discuss Del Rio's needs and decided one of the city's foremost needs was for more youth and adult sports fields.

"That's how the dream began, then came putting the ideas together and getting the work going and raising funds," she said.

After raffling the small "casitas" created by local contractors, she said, the group began to look for land, which was provided by the city and a donation of additional land from Nixon and his Buena Vista Development Co. Owens said the project also got a huge boost with a $100,000 pledge from Khoury and The Khoury Group.

The city council and county commissioners court members pledged in-kind assistance, and the project was off and running.

"This wouldn't have happened without the support of everyone here . . . It is a 'field of dreams,' that was the dream of many, and today we celebrate because we can see the fruit of all our work," Owens said.

Owens singled out Pokrant for her hard work and dedication on behalf of the project.

City Councilman Jim DeReus gave the closing remarks.

"The thing about this project was always 'how are we going to make it happen?' We were all committed to it," DeReus said.

DeReus lauded the vision that preceded the project's inception and the drive and consistency that led to its construction.

"Everyone was involved; that's the only way these things are going to happen, and we need to continue this. There are so many things we would like to do, that we can do, when we collaborate," DeReus said.

County Commissioner Pct. 3 Beau Nettleton, in whose precinct the complex is sited, has been a staunch advocate for the creation of more youth sports facilities.

"This is a great facility. It's a good start in the direction we need to go for our youth. This plugs a small hole in our needs, but there's still a lot more needs to meet, such as for indoor sports facilities, soccer fields, PeeWee football. When you look at the number of children that play some sort of sport, you begin to see that that need is, but we need to continue working on these types of projects," Nettleton said.

Mayfield's 3-run blast highlights big week for 'Captain' Jack

ARGABRIGHT

The 830 Times

It's been a memorable week for Jack Mayfield.

"Captain" Jack smashed a three-run home Thursday night that proved to be the difference in the Los Angeles Angels' 3-2 win over the Minnesota Twins.

It was the second home run in the past seven days for the 2009 Del Rio High School graduate. He blasted a solo shot to deep centerfield in a 9-4 win over his former team, the Seattle Mariners.

AP Photo

Los Angeles Angels third baseman Jack Mayfield collides with a Minnesota Twins player during a game Thursday. Del Rio's Mayfield hit a three-run home run that was the difference in the Angels' 3-2 win over the Twins.

The Los Angeles at-bat as such:
Times' Jack Harris "After José Iglesias described Mayfield's doubled (his second of the game) and Adam Eaton singled, Jack Mayfield came to the plate and initially tried to bunt in a 1-1 count.

"His attempt was poor, a pop up that landed in the seats behind the Twins dugout.

"Three pitches later, however, he made up for it, smoking a three-run homer into the left field seats to give the Angels the lead."

Mayfield is making the most of his time with the Angels. It's his second stint with the Halos after he signed with the team earlier this season following his release by the Atlanta Braves. He appeared in only two games for Los Angeles before he was designated for release and signed by the Mariners.

Mayfield appeared in 11 games for the Mariners before Seattle released him June 10. The Angels snatched him back up three days later and sent him to their minor league team in Salt Lake City, Utah, before calling him up to the main roster July 6 in the wake of an injury to starting third baseman Anthony Rendon.

Mayfield has seen more time in the field and at the plate for the Angels since being called July 6. Those additional appearances have also helped the former all-district Rams infielder/pitcher raise his batting average from .156 to .211 this season.

Mayfield capped the series by going 1-for-3 against the Twins on Sunday, driving in a run with a double in the Angels' 6-2 win over Minnesota.

Mayfield played for four years at the University of Oklahoma before he signed as an undrafted free agent by the Houston Astros in 2013. He made his major league debut on May 27, 2019, ripping a double off the wall in his first major league at-bat.

JURY - FROM PAGE 8

She informed the prospective jurors the state is never required to prove a motive for a crime, although that is the one question most people have about a criminal act.

West also told the prospective jurors although the state must prove its case against Brown beyond a reasonable doubt, it does not have to prove the case beyond any doubt.

After West finished quizzing them, the prospective jurors also heard from Brown's attorney, Ramon, who noted, "Trials are dramas, so being in a theater is somewhat appropriate."

On a more serious note, Ramon urged anyone selected for the jury to be impartial.

"You are the people who have the power to decide the fate of my client," Ramon said.

He asked anyone who felt they could not be impartial to excuse themselves from the process, though no one did.

After the questioning, Israel Prieto, one of the District Clerk Jo Ann Cervantes' clerks, announced the names of the six women and six men who will hear the case. Two alternates, both women, also were selected.
